DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Newly submitted claims 35-50 directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: the method steps may be used with a materially different apparatus and the apparatus claims are related to the claims as originally filed as subcombinations useable together.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 35-50 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by King (U.S. Patent 5,002,620).

King discloses a unit having a block of compressible material (14), a frangible material (62) positioned there on, and an intermediate material (16) positioned there between. The frangible material may be positioned on a outer (i.e., top) surface. Because the blocks may be positioned in any manner in a given application, orientation (i.e., top) has not been given patentable weight. Regarding the newly added limitations of compressible and breakable, note that there are no recitations regarding the force needed to compress or break. The block of King is compressible and the material is breakable. The examiner would be remiss in allowing a claim based on a material being breakable.

Regarding claim 6, if the block was placed on very hard ground, claim limitations would be met.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over King, as applied above.

Regarding claim 4, the frangible material has a thickness of less than ½ inch. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a thickness not exceeding ½ inch for the intermediate material in order to suit a particular application. Note that dimensions are not a patentably distinguishing characteristic in the instance.

Regarding claims 8 and 9, the units of King could be positioned in any manner desired. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have positioned the units of King as claimed in order to suit a particular application.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed February 24, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. As discussed in the arguments, King is intended to be used for a different purpose; however, as noted in the rejection above, the block would be compressible during vehicle arrestment, and the other materials would provide resistance to and mitigate transmission of jet blast erosive effects. Further, no patentable weight can be given to an apparatus being breakable during vehicle arrestment. Given a vehicle such as an aircraft, nearly any material, and probably every known material, would be breakable.

Upon further consideration, claim 2 is deemed to be allowable.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
